Theodore Roosevelt on Wilsonism

By SCOTT C. BONE

Touring the country as a candidate for Vice President, Franklin D. Roosevelt is vainly endeavoring to invoke the progressive spirit of 1912 in support of Wilsonism and the election of the Democratic ticket in November.

What would the real Roosevelt—Theodore Roosevelt—the immortal T. R.—say to his followers, were he alive today? Gone, he left burning words which tell all too plainly what his attitude would be at this time.

He abhorred Wilsonism, just as he abhorred Danielism, with both of which Franklin D. Roosevelt has been identified as an under Secretary.

Theodore Roosevelt condemned Wilsonism and the whole Wilson administration in unsparring terms.

Read anew what he said at Cooper Union on November 3, 1916:

"I have been assailed because I have criticized Mr. Wilson. I have not said one thing of him that was not absolutely accurate and truthful.

"I have not said one thing of him which I did not deem it necessary to say because of the vital interests of this republic.

"I have criticized him because I believe he has dragged in the dust what was most sacred in our past and has jeopardized the most vital hopes of our future.

"I criticize him now because he has adroitly and cleverly and with sinister ability appealed to all that is weakest and most unworthy in the American character; and also because he has adroitly and cleverly and with sinister ability sought to mislead many men and women who are neither weak nor unworthy, but who have been misled by a shadow dance of words.

"He has made our statesmanship a thing of empty eloquence. He has covered his fear of standing for the right behind a veil of rhetorical phrases.

"He has wrapped the true heart of the nation in a spangled shroud of rhetoric.

"He has kept the eyes of the people dazzled so that they know not what is real and what is false. So that they turn, bewildered, unable to discern the difference between the glitter that veneers evil and the stark realities of courage and honesty, of truth and strength.

"In the face of the world he has covered this nation's face with shame as with a garment."

So much for Theodore Roosevelt's opinion of Wilson and Wilsonism in support of which Franklin D. Roosevelt, life-long Democrat would now invoke the progressive spirit of 1912?

And what did Theodore Roosevelt think of Daniels' administration of the Navy Department of which the Democrat, Franklin D. Roosevelt, has been a more or less conspicuous factor and part?

In a speech on "Americanism and National Defense," at Chicago, October 26, 1916, Theodore Roosevelt said:

"More harm has been done to the navy by the politicians in power during the last three years than in the preceding thirty. Whatever good has been accomplished in the navy during the last three years has been done by naval officers who, in most cases, have been snubbed and punished for their proposals as long as it was safe to do so; whereas Mr. Daniels now turns and claims credit for what was thus forced upon him.

"In short, throughout President Wilson's term there has been neglect or positive mal-administration in connection with departmental organization in navy yards, aeronautics, mines and torpedoes, and in all other matters affecting the efficiency of the fleet and the enthusiasm of its officers and men. The activity and energy of the Navy Department under President Wilson have been primarily concentrated upon schemes aimed at vote-getting or advertising."

Then, then, is what Theodore Roosevelt thought of the administration of the Department from which Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, and exponent of Wilsonism, aim would reach the Vice Presidency and have progressives of 1912 followers of the real Roosevelt, help to keep the Democratic party in power and make Wilsonism endure!

It is inconceivable that any true follower of Theodore Roosevelt will hearken to such a preposterous appeal.

AT THE DE LUXE

Mary Pickford, who has delighted so many millions as the glad girl in "Pollyanna" will be seen at the De Luxe theater on Monday in her latest United Artists' Corporation production, "Suds" in a role said to be entirely different from anything in which she has heretofore appeared.

The story was adapted from the stage play "Op o' Me Thumb" in which Maude Adams appeared with such great success in Charles Frohman's Empire Theater in New York City.

The cast was especially selected by Miss Pickford as being especially adapted to the roles in which they appear. The street scenes are laid in the slums of London in which were photographed by the star's English representatives and reproduced at her studio in perfect detail.

The cast supporting Miss Pickford is one of unusual excellence, including such well known players as Albert Austin, Madame Rose Dione and Harold Goodwin.

The photoplay was produced under the direction of Jack Dillon from the scenario by Waldemar Young, and Charles Rober who has been responsible for the splendid photography in all of Miss Pickford's recent productions was in charge of the cameras. The huge street sets and the interiors were made under the supervision of the star's technical director, Max Parker.

The play will be at the De Luxe theater for five days.
